On the Verge of A Merge

Students Voice Opinions On Merger

J.J. Rutland
Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following opinions are those of students here at ASC. They do not reflect the opinions of the INKWELL staff, ASC administration or faculty.

"I read the news today, oh boy..."

-The Beatles
A Day in the Life

Those were the words of John Lennon a little over twenty years ago. Some of us probably felt exactly like that on that morning when we woke up to the Savannah Morning News and its article on the proposal by the Board of Regents of a merger between Armstrong State College and Savannah State College.

The decision is lurking around the corner; in a short while students at both schools will learn their fates. To merge or not to merge...THAT is the question. Whether 'tis nobler to attempt to form a cohesive college unit in the Savannah area or leave the two institutions alone.

Danny Manning
Staff Writer

Springtime is upon us once again, fellow Armstrongians, and that can mean only one thing: SGA elections!

On April 18 and 19, the Armstrong State College Student Government Association will hold its annual elections. Among the positions students will be voting for are the SGA offices of President, Vice-president, Secretary and Treasurer.

Other positions students will be deciding on include several senate seats.

Sophomore, Health Professions and Physical Education, and Arts, Sciences and Education senators will all be elected in the upcoming elections, each school having several spots on the Senate.

The decisions probably won't be too easy. At press time, the candidates match up like this: Bob Long, incumbent SGA Vice-president, will be looking for higher ground next year as he seeks the President's office. It appears he may do so, as he is, at present, running uncontested.

Incumbent SGA Secretary, Stephanie Norman,

Armstrong? The Savannah public has yet to be flooded with opinions of ASC students, as they have with SSC students.

So how exactly do will also hoping to move up as she vies for the Vice-president's position. She, too, will be running unopposed.

But that's as easy as it gets. As it looks now, in the SGA Treasurer's spot, incumbent Tommy McGalliard will be seeking to keep a hold on his position for next year. However, unlike Long and Norman, McGalliard will have to face opposition.

Marius Ruja, an SGA senator this year, will be looking to oust McGalliard as SGA Treasurer. Michael West, a 1987 CHAOS leader will also be vying for the Treasurer's students at Armstrong feel about a merger? In contrast to SSC backers, who adamantly oppose such a move, one finds that ASC is a melting pot, if you will; some students are in favor of a merge, while others vehemently oppose the proposal.

Senior Lee Harrell opposes the move. "It is unfair to those students who have dedicated themselves and have sophomore International Business Marketing major, feels that the issue has become one of race: "It's all black versus white right now. With all of the animosity it wouldn't be a smart move."

Alexa Holland, Linda Baxley and Melanie Foss all seem to share these same feelings with Vinueza. Holland, a sophomore Interior Design major, claims that "the schools would be fighting over black and white administration." She concedes that in terms of funding, the merger would be "a good idea." However, she says that academically and socially, the merger "would be a disaster."

Baxley, a sophomore Elementary Education major, agrees with Vinueza and Holland on their feelings that "the whole issue is a conflict of black and white." Baxley stated, "I don't think they should have to give up their history, their campus. And I don't think it would be fair for us to just throw away everything that we have worked for." Baxley also suggested that should the merger go through, there should be some sort of centralized campus. "Keeping the campuses apart would probably mean a lot of commuting back and forth; that would deter a lot of people."

Foss, a sophomore Sociology Major, says that, because of racial tensions, a merger "would have to take some getting used to. After the tensions subsided, perhaps it would work."

Foss also says that a merger would generate a lot of confusion in the athletic program: "People talk about Armstrong getting a football team, but what would happen to our baseball players? Or our basketball players? It'd just generate more problems than good."

However, like everything else, there are two sides to the story. Bob Long, a junior Criminal Justice major, says that the merger is a good thing. "As long as this is the first step towards a University in the Southeast (involving Georgia Southern and Brunswick Junior College), put so much time into ASC to make it what is now. We have come a long way since the days of 'Armpit U,'" Harrell says, "and I think that we have finally achieved something that we can really be proud of. It would just be a waste."

The choice for SGA Secretary will be between three newcomers. Melanie Bucheit, a freshman Pre-engineering major, will be looking to take over the vacated spot. The Editor's Beef

Last weekend the ASC College Union Board threw a party and nobody showed up. Where was everybody? I think there were about 35 people there, but that included the ten or so people who helped set up for the dance and the baseball team. Where was everyone? Oh yeah, I forgot; Sonny Spoon is on Friday nights. And what about all during the winter, when the basketball

"I Feel So Much Better Now..."

Dalai Details Daytona

The Dalai Lama
Uncle Mudfoot

Daytona, Florida. Another dimension, a dimension of sight, a dimension of sound, a dimension of mind altering alcohol beings. A land of shadows and substance abuse, of hallucinogenic rays and savage sunburns. But hell, we had a good time anyway.

Day 1: Departing Armstrong at around 8:30 because two of our beloved happy campers were late, we checked in at the Best Western La Bendover at around 2:00. We then pondered why it took us 5½ hours to make a 3 hour drive.

The refreshments begin to be consumed at about 7 o'clock. The refreshments coming from the store appropriately called "LIQUOR." Our faithful companion Joy wakes everyone up at 3 a.m. declaring "I feel so much better now!" after an all night drinking binge which led to several hours of worshipping the porcelain god.

Day 2: Up at 11:00 a.m. and to the beach. We get to observe Bubbles(not you Shannon) performing a provocative Daytona dancing ritual on the pool deck. She is rewarded with a wet T-shirt. At around 1 o'clock we head to Denny's and have our first encounter with our hung over waitress Susan. We also meet Barbara and Laverne, the lovely ladies who watch for shoplifters in the Bendover T-shirt Shop. "Laverne and I were on the beach in Titusville and a man went jogging by wearing only his tennis shoes." Can't you get a black eye like that?

At about 9 'clock we all head for the unrepudiated Penrod Plaza(sounds like a personal problem to me). We pay $10 to get in but get a "free" T-shirt and mug. All meet back at the room early, mainly because of cherry covered skin caused by the intense Florida sun.

Day 3: This was Thursday and for some reason unknown to me, most of us have no recollection of this day except for seeing a G-String clad, tattooed girl climbing over the balcony rail. Wasn't she with the Harley convention?

By the way, Steve and Joy, Vicki lost five dollars in Daytona, what did YOU lose?!

Day 4: The guys get Beverly's car and the girls get Vicki's car and we both go cruising. We set out for the Red Garter strip joint but end up cruising the strip. We fill Beverly's car with the requested Amoco Golden Premium and reattach the muffler which we didn't really need anyway.

We return to the La Bendover and find Beverly No. 2 waiting for Steve. "She said I made her laugh, but I mostly used your jokes, Dalai." Thanks Steve, I feel so much better now. Our friend Vicki advises horizontally positioned nocturnal beachcombers on safe sex practices and tries to sell Donna for a fair amount of money. Unfortunately we couldn't get rid of her because we didn't have change for a five and the buyer kept saying something about a "blood test."

Today we met Hans and Franz. Schwarzenegger would advise us: "Hear me now and believe me layterr. If you want to look like a 97-pound veeklink on za beach, dat's yor own prahblem. Vee just want to pomp you opp." We also ran into Chaz and Biff: "Good God, the fridge in the schooner has broken and all the Perrier is warm." Steve's woman turns out to be a stewardess and the phrase "Ready when you are" turns out to have a whole new meaning.

Day 5: Most of us, except Mudfoot, have recovered from our eighth degree sunburn and head to the beach for one last time.

We head for Denny's again and take a picture of Susan and are rated by a bevy of women from Missouri. Our second set of lovelies met there, they were also leaving in 2 hours. We get a fine? We then head to the Bendover T-Shirt shop and photograph Laverne and Barbara who give us a hug good-bye. Thanks for giving me such a good deal on the $5 zinc. Joy bought one down the road for $2.50. I feel so much better now.

That night we go to Dazzle's and rate it better than Penrod's even though the cover is the same 10 clams. I meet a fabulous babe from Utah named Franchesca. I think. Oh well. Steve finds a short blonde as Vicki and I observe a lady for hire with the local distributors experts.

At 2 am we got to the Krystal and read the ever-followed Krystal Kreed-clean restaurant, good food and friendly service. The ladies' room has a glass door on it. The door to the men's room leads you back outside. Does this mean we're supposed allow our bodily functions to flow onto the battlements of this glamorous dive? I did.

I'd like to end with a quote from Thomas James McKnight of the Savannah Deliverance Temple, "You don't need no condom when you got the Holy Ghost." So I got that going for me, which is nice.

By the way, did I mention that I feel so much better now?

How Sweet It Is!

Baseball Bucs Wreaking Havoc

Dominique Wilkins
Staff Writer

Ah, to taste the sweetness of a fruit off the tree of winning.

After a dismal winter, which saw the ASC hoopsters bite into a raw onion, the Boys of Spring have sprung into action, giving the college something it can be proud of. Darn proud.

All of this is going to sound like a bunch of rehashing. Everyone and their mamma knows about the beating Coach Roberts' boys have been putting on the enemies this year. But, darn it, I haven't had a chance to sing my praises.

Picture, if you will, Bill Bickel, platooning catcher, gently sending a gopher ball over the 290 mark down the left field line of Grayson Stadium in a win against the Georgia Southern Tweety-

Birds. Picture Bill Gearhart, pitcher extraordinaire, still unbeaten after 19 consecutive games, 9-0 this season. Picture an immaculate compilation of wins and losses, with only one, count 'em again, one blemish, that being a loss to a Division I team. Picture a Division II team at 30-1 which is 10-1 against Division I teams. Picture a fine-tuned machine with no intention of breaking down. Picture a number 2 ranking in the NCAA Division II poll. Picture perfection.

That's what Joe Roberts has given ASC. Perfection. Well, okay, they've lost one game. But the Pirates have a team batting average of .348, led by Dana Harding, who is at .382, and Mike Mitchner, who is at .351 with 11 round-trippers and 52 runs batted in. And don't forget Danny Moore, who's hitting .362, and Calvin Culbertson, who's at .363, and Mark Wagenhauser who's at .376. Whew! I'm out of breath.

And what about the team ERA which stands lower than three runs per game? Even the Mets would be envious.

When a team is walking

"When we're hitting, there's nobody that can beat us."

-Danny Moore
ASC Right Fielder

all over the opposition, like Roberts' Bucs are doing, sometimes arrogance tends to play a role in the downfall of the team. Not this team, though, according to right fielder Danny Moore. "No, we're not cocky; we're just very sure of ourselves. There's a difference. When we're hitting there's nobody that can beat us," says Moore. "The loss brought us down to Earth. As long as everything holds up, we're going to be doing all right."

All right? Is that all? If "everything holds up," the Pirates may be off to breaking a couple of thousand collegiate records. And wouldn't it be nice to have a national championship trophy in the case in the gym? (Can you say "Domination of the entire civilized world?" I knew that you could.) Let's hope that that tree of winning just keeps a bloomin'!

SPORTS New Affadavits: Long Time Coming

Kelly Keating
Staff Writer

Prior to the start of this year's NCAA basketball tournament, the organization decided to try once again the use of affidavits by participating athletes stating they have not and will not sign with an agent prior to or during the tournament. NCAA Executive Director Dick Schultz made the announcement at the end of the annual NCAA College Football Preview and personally feels that the affidavit system will in the future apply to other college sports as well. College football seems to be the sport which most often has the most athletes abusing the existing rules.

The affidavits were last used in 1971 when Villanova, after having lost the basketball championship game to UCLA, also had to give up its runner-up status due to a player signing a professional contract with a team of the American Basketball Association. Not only did Villanova lose its status, but it was also forced to return all money received in connection with the championship game.

In the past when affidavits were used, the courts have always supported the NCAA, so enforcement is not a concern. It seems that justice is finally being levied in the right area. Although punishment, such as that which was used against Villanova, has existed previously, it always involved the school of the athlete that had committed the violation and not the individual athlete himself. Let's face it, colleges and universities can no more control the actions of their players in regards to dealings with agents any more than you or I can effect world peace! It is only fair that the individual involved be punished and not his school. After all, when the controversy has settled down, the athlete still has his contract with the professional team (and we know the kind of money, usually involved with that), but what does the "offending" school have? Nothing. The school has no title, no revenue from the game, no t.v. rights, and no scholarships, while Mr. Athlete is playing pro sports, driving his new BMW, talking on his cellular phone and making plans for lunch that afternoon in Los Angeles. Does not quite sound fair to me.

Three cheers to the NCAA for finally waking up to the reality of the cold, harsh world that all college athletes are not naive and innocent.

Spring Quarter Intramural Sked

Kelly Keating
Staff Writer

With the warm weather finally upon us there is not a better time to get outside and enjoy the beautiful climate of Savannah. The Athletic Department of ASC would like to help by getting you involved in the upcoming intramural activities that they will be offering for spring quarter. All students, faculty, and staff of ASC are eligible, and should have a validated ASC I.D. to prove eligibility. Payment of activity fees will be required before play in leagues or tournaments is allowed. One need not be on an already organized team to participate. Individuals who wish to participate will be placed in open spots on a team by the Intramural Department.

The following activities will be offered spring quarter:

Tennis.....Entries Due 4/13
PickleballEntries Due 4/15
Water Basketball.....Due 4/19
"Horse" Basketball .Due 4/28
Horseshoes.....Due 5/3

The Intramurals and Recreational Activities Department is trying to organize a Fitness Club to be similar in theory to a fitness center. The activities would be held early in the morning to allow most students to participate as opposed to evenings. Activities would be varied each day and would consist of such activities as running swimming, and aerobics. Anyone interested should contact Lynn Roberts at 927-5339.

The ASC Women's tennis team has been on the courts now since February 17, and will continue play up through the end of this month. Although that may sound like a short season, the girls have been practicing since last fall for this season alone. NCAA rules require that all college tennis teams play at least 30 games, unfortunately those dates get squeezed into a condensed time span.

Head tennis coach Lynn Roberts, herself a former ASC tennis player, realizing that ASC is not known for its tennis, has tried to tackle the poor image problem by working hard with her team to improve their overall skill. An increase in next year's budget should help to draw more quality players to ASC, although no one will be close to a full scholarship. The players are regarded as students first, athletes second. Coach Roberts views this season as "a learning experience" for both herself and her team and is quite excited about the planned increase in funds for the tennis teams for next season. The team consists of:

Julie Lents, Kentucky, Junior
Crystal Kessler, Pt. Wentworth, Freshman
Jeana Wambold, Michigan, Senior
Helen Garlick, England, Sophomore
Maria Vinueza, Matyland, Freshman
Christa Doss, Garden City, Freshman
Nilam Patel, Savannah, Freshman

All home matches are played at the ASC Tennis Courts. Spectators are always welcome to cheer the team on and are encouraged! The following are the remaining matches left for this season:

4/13.....	Centre College.....	2:30pm
4/14.....	Washington & Lee University	2:30pm
4/19.....	GSC	2:00pm
4/26.....	SSC	3:00pm

Be sure to come out and support the Pirates.

Swim Team Winds Up Season

Maureen Paglia
Staff Writer

The ASC Women's Swimming Team completed the 1987-88 season with an excellent showing at the Atlanta Invitational. The Pirates took 8th place in their division with Cindy Nunley and Noel French leading the team. The 200 Medley Relay and 200 Free Relay both placed in finals with the swimmers: Noel French, Tula Koch, Kami Varnedoe and Cindy Nunley. Noel French swam her best this season in the 500 yard freestyle (20 lengths of the pool) with a time of 6:09.37. Also setting a personal best mark in the 500 yard freestyle was Theresa Porzio with a mark of 7:48.06. Porzio also set a personal mark in the 200 yard free with a time of 2:55.68. Cindy Nunley placed 15th overall in the 100 yard breaststroke with a time of 1:16.12, her best time this season.

"I'm very pleased with our performance at this invitational considering the induction of three powerhouse teams to our division," commented Mark Paglia, coach of the team. Of the 17 teams competing, the University of Tampa, Furman University and Washington and Lee University made their first appearances this year at the invitational, making a great impact, each capturing a place in the top five. ASC is losing only one, but valuable, swimmer, Cindy Nunley. "This will be a great loss for our team, not just for her swimming ability, but her leadership qualities as well," said Coach Paglia. "But next year looks even brighter with promising freshman recruits joining our ranks this September."

If you are interested in becoming a part of the 1988-89 team and have any competitive swimming background, please contact Coach Paglia at 927-5339.

Gooooood Morning, ASC!

Adrian Cronauer Slated To Speak at Fine Arts

Adrian Cronauer

Brett A. Thomas
Staff Writer

Adrian Cronauer, the Armed Forces Radio Disc Jockey portrayed by Robin Williams in the super-smash hit Good Morning Vietnam, will appear at ASC on April 15, at 12:30pm in the Fine Arts Auditorium.

Many people have now gone to see Good Morning Vietnam, a hilarious movie about Adrian Cronauer, an American DJ in Vietnam, and his escapades in Saigon. The film stars Robin Williams, and has been highly acclaimed by critics. However, most people don't realize that there is a real Adrian Cronauer, upon whom the film was based. Mr. Cronauer, now a law student at the University of Pennsylvania, wrote the screenplay for the movie, and was the basis for the original concept.

According to Mr. Cronauer there are several differences between the movie and his life. First of all, he requested a transfer to Vietnam, (in 1964 it wasn't the place it would become) while, in the movie, he was transferred. He also ran into some major problems from the military leadership in the film. In real life, however, "...the brass in Vietnam wasn't as interfering...there was news censorship, but they didn't care so much what we said or played, as long as we gave the announcements..."

There were, apparently, several differences between the Silver Screen Cronauer and the real life one. So don't expect a Robin Williams clone to be showing up on our doorstep -- because you won't get one. "I'm not nearly as funny as Robin," Cronauer says. "I was basically your disc jockey; he is basically a comedian. I think I was a lot better DJ than he is, but he's a heck of a lot better comedian than I am." However, don't go expecting a dud, either - fellow Saigon disc jockey Ben Moses said that "Cronauer had a more dry humor."

Don't forget: the real (not the reel) Adrian Cronauer will be at the ASC Fine Arts Auditorium on April 15, at 12:30 pm. You won't want to miss it!

The Komedy Kwartter

J.J. Rutland
Staff Home Bee

ASC's College Union Board has designated Spring Quarter '88 as "The Komedy Kwartter," guaranteed to bring a smile to everyone's face.

Rock Me Productions has slated four of the top comedians around to appear at Emcees every other Tuesday of the Spring. Lionel Norman, Peter Hefty and Todd Yohn have all signed on to help lighten the loads of school a little. Carey Long, the first of the four comics already made an appearance on April 5.

Lionel Norman, who has appeared at the Improv in L.A. and Dangerfield's in New York will be at ASC on April 19. Norman, who uses various characters in his act, has opened for several stars such as Jay Leno and Bill Cosby.

Peter Hefty will appear on May 3. Hefty, a stand-up comic with a touch of ventriloquism and impressionism in his act, has opened for Loretta Lynn and Howie Mandell.

Todd Yohn will close up "The Komedy Kwartter" on May 17. Yohn, one of the top requested comedians on the Comedy Zone Circuit, is a past winner of the Funnyman Contest and has opened for the Charlie Daniels Band.

So keep those dates in mind and be sure to make it to Emcees for some of the funniest men in America. All shows start at 7:30 pm.

You Won't Notice Any Difference, But Your Country Will.

Some young men are confused about Selective Service registration. They sometimes confuse registration with the draft or with enlisting for military service. The fact is, registration is not the same as either of those.

Registration is simply a way of maintaining a list of names which could save our country six vital weeks in responding to a national emergency. And registration is a requirement for federal student loans, job training benefits and most federal employment.

The five minutes you spend filling out a simple form at the post office won't change you. In fact, registration won't make you any different. But it will make a difference to your country.

When you turn 18, register with Selective Service.
It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Faculty Lecture Series

Dr. Harbin Speaks On Women In Mathematics

Maureen Paglia
Staff Writer

According to a study done in 1750 it would be a "strain on their mentality" to teach women long division or vulgar fractions. Dr. Micki Harbin proved otherwise in her report given as part of the Faculty Lecture Series back on March 10. Entitled "Multiplying in the Face of the Odds...Struggles and Triumphs of Women in Mathematics," Dr. Harbin presented a comprehensive study of accomplishments and contributions of women in the field of mathematics. Beginning with a bit of humor and references to the absurd generalities made about women's mental capabilities throughout time, Dr. Harbin quickly grabbed the attention of her audience. Her first lecture given at ASC as a part of this series combined information with entertainment as she tackled a subject that concerns not only the Math Department, but anyone interested in quality education for all students.

Born in 370 A.D.,

Hypatia is the first mentioned female contributor in the area of mathematics. Her works include Conics of Apollonius and Arithmetica of Diophantus. She is also "credited with the invention of an astrolabe and a planesphere." And of course there was Maria Agnesi's textbook Analytical Institutions, a text on differential and integral calculus. Her book is credited as being the first comprehensive textbook on calculus. All of us struggling with the subject know who to thank. There was Sophie Germain, Sonya Corvin-Krukovsky Kovalsky, Mary Fairfax Somerville and Emmy Noether. Dr. Harbin covered the difficult circumstances society imposed on each of these women: unsupportive parents, the inability to receive a proper education, and ridicule from accomplished mathematicians and scientists. Despite these obstacles, progress was achieved, but not enough. According to Dr. Harbin's study "before 1940 14 percent of Americans earning doctorates in mathematics were women, compared with 5 percent in the 1950's, 6 percent in the 1960's, and back up to 12 percent by 1981."

Dr. Harbin received her PhD in 1980 at the University of Texas at Arlington. After working for one year at Vought Aerospace in Texas she decided that teaching and sharing her enthusiasm for mathematics was her true vocation. Insomnia inspired the topic and the task of creating a study of the struggles and achievements of women in the field of mathematics, a subject that had always intrigued her. In October of 1987, Dr. Harbin was asked to be a speaker at the Georgia Math conference to present her study. Upon submitting her work to the Faculty Lecture Series Board at Armstrong it was also chosen and received a well-deserved place on the lecture series schedule.

The faculty lecture series is offered nine times a year, three times a quarter and is open to all students and faculty. The next scheduled lecture will be "One Woman's View" presented by Linda Gibson-Jensen of the Department of Fine Arts on May 5, 1988 at 12:30 pm in the Health Professions Auditorium.

ATTENTION JUNE GRADS! CARL: The Know-it-All

Barbara Heuer
Lane Library Staff

He's been in the library for years, but maybe you haven't met. He can be short and sweet or detailed and complete. He can cite authorities, in any field you can name. He's resourceful. He has recently updated his image and is now, more than ever, fast, thorough, and very adaptable to your needs. Who is this boon to research?

CARL is an online information retrieval service available to all Armstrong students, faculty and staff. Through CARL you have access to over 300 databases in many subject areas, including medicine, business, education, psychology, science and technology. These databases can be scanned for information in minutes to give you a list of citations to books, journal articles, reports, dissertations and conference proceedings.

Computer searching offers advantages to the student writing a report, the instructor preparing a lecture, or anyone involved in extended research. It can save time in locating sources. Years of citations can be searched in minutes to give a complete bibliography. Several indexes can be consulted during one search. You receive an accurate, printed bibliography immediately. Depending on your preference, you can request a list of titles or complete citations with abstracts.

An attractive advantage of computer searching is the possibility of combining concepts. If, for example, you needed to find articles on test taking anxiety and math students in college, you could combine these concepts all at once when the search is done. Your resulting bibliography would be tailored to your topic, listing articles that combine to the concepts you specify. Further refinement of the computer search can make it more specific. You can specify, for example, sources limited to the last five years or citations to certain journals only.

Costs for using CARL have been reduced thanks to an improved computer system. The average cost of a search at Lane Library is now about $4.00, which covers telecommunications, database, and printing charges.

To make a date with CARL, see a reference librarian. We'll be happy to introduce you.

The following companies will be on the ASC campus to conduct interviews:

DATE	COMPANY	POSITIONS
4/11	Charter Marketing Services	Supervisor Trainee
4/12	Northwestern Mutual	Sales Agent
4/13	Eckerd Drug Company	Management Trainees
4/14	K-Mart Apparel Corp.	Management Trainees
4/19	Harris/3M	Sales Representative
4/20	Pitney Bowes	Sales Representative
4/21	J.B. White Corp.	Management Trainee
4/25	Whitehall Industries	Sales Representatives

To interview, you must either have a resume or College Interview Form on File with the Counseling and Placement Office (Room 11, Administration Building) before the dates indicated above. All majors are eligible for the above jobs.

Employer information and interview sign-up sheets are available in the Counseling and Placement Office.

then I'm all for it," Long says. He adds that should the merger go through, there's going to be appeals, court cases and other types of red tape just causing a big delay. "I think that they should all be avoided; don't fight it."

Mike Smith, a senior General Studies major, shares Long's feelings: "A regional school would be excellent."

Maureen Paglia says that the merger would be a good idea mainly because it would "offer students in the Savannah area more opportunities." Paglia also stated, "The increased funding would be a big pick-me-up for the area." However, Paglia fears the possibility of ASC's academic standards being lowered. She offers the Board this advice: "Should the merger go through, the academic standards of the new school should be high. A whole new overhaul would be needed."

So you see, according to these ASC students, there is no clear-cut answer. Merging the two schools would create more problems, yet leaving the two schools separate would leave several problems unsolved. The only advice I can give you is choose a side, if that's possible, stand firm with your opinion, and hold your breath. You may get what you want; but then again, maybe you won't.
